

To whom it may concern:

On my daily commute to and from work (up to 160 miles one way, 5,000 to 6,000 miles a month), XM Radio is for a large portion my only way of listening to meaningful, quality programs, to get the information I need. Other radio stations like Public Radio do not reach many places I have to go to most days.

It would be a bad move to take away XM Radio's ability to offer such programs to drivers like me who spend large amounts of time in their vehicles. I urge you to let XM Radio to do what it currently does, so people like I do not have to suffer from this unfortunate, in my eyes misguided political campaign.

Respectfully,

Jorg Gobel-Staib